

The safety management tool for hazardous industries

The most important commitment we can make to our teams is that we'll do everything in our power to keep the workplace safe.

Nu-Safe® was created to support hazardous industries in their drive to actively manage critical controls. Nu-Safe® provides objective and measurable information which can be shared across the organisation. Teams are able to see the link between their individual daily activities and maintaining safe operations – giving our customers the power to put safety into the hands of their whole team.

As hazardous industries evolve, we continue to leverage our specialist expertise in risk and regulatory compliance, identifying different opportunities for our customers that result in safety, environmental and financial benefits for all stakeholders – operators, regulators and communities.

Our team pride themselves on the strong relationships, founded on trust, they have with our customers – they ensure dollars aren't spent when they don't need to be.

Take the control into your own hands

Every day we want our customers and their teams to know that their workplaces are safe – and to find that information should be as easy as checking their mobile.

When managing the risk of hazardous workplaces on a day to day basis, having clear real time information is important.
